

Our rights are being eroded one by one, and it has to stop. This new internet eavesdropping proposal is very dangerous. First of all, the government cannot legally gain access to non-public communication without the explicit order of a court. That is one of the rights American citizens were born with. Second, this is too easy to manipulate and abuse. Orwellian laws and practices are not welcome here. Let them stay where they died: Nazi Germany, The Soviet Union, The Taliban, etc. The federal government must take a look in the mirror and pay careful attention to the road down which it is traveling.
